CRITES WINNER BY SIX VOTES Council Again Talks Of Sewer Hike

Leist Reviews Urgent Need Of Major Project

Utilities Head Admits Financing Difficult; No Action Taken

City council Tuesday night renewed talk of the huge sewer improvement program to serve the city's northern sections.

The big master plan, eventually intended to bring modern sewer facilities to a wide region north of Hargus Creek, had been sidetracked at a previous session because it would apparently require a major hike in sanitary sewer rates. There is no indication as yet that this requirement can be eliminated from the plans.

However, Public Utilities Manager Ervin Leist said the increase in rates could be held to only 60 percent if several of the financing arrangements prove successful. Originally, it was said that an increase of 100 percent would have to be expected.

In addition, property owners would have to meet "benefit" assessments in a number of cases.

RENEWED study of the whole sewer program presumably came about only because of a general review of the project by the utilities manager. Leist has repeatedly stressed the need of the new trunk lines and a new pump station, but he conceded some of the financing problems will be difficult to solve.

The matter came up for discussion when Clerk of Council Fred Nicholas began reading the old, sidetracked "sewer rate increase" legislation, calling for a 100 percent increase. It had been set aside in a drive led by Councilman Harold Clifton, who insisted council must first determine "how much money we need and for what." He said a 100 percent rate hike was far too much to consider.

The lawmakers are apparently still agreed on that point, but they also failed Tuesday night to give Leist clear-cut authority.

Temperatures Expected To Start Decline

CHICAGO (AP)—Temperatures which climbed to summer levels in many parts of the mid-continent for two days this week appeared headed for near normal marks today.

Fairly pleasant spring weather was the outlook for much of the eastern two thirds of the country. The cooler air which kept temperatures on the chilly side in the Rocky Mountain and Great Basin regions moved eastward across the plains and into the Mississippi Valley. Temperatures which were in the 90s and upper 80s Monday have dropped 20 to 25 degrees.

But readings were in the 90s in many Midwest areas yesterday, with a record of the date in Chicago with a 92.

Thunderstorms were reported early today in a belt extending from central Wisconsin southwestward through eastern Iowa and into northern Missouri. Light rain continued in eastern Montana and parts of North Dakota. Fair weather prevailed in most other parts of the country.

Logan Slayer's Conviction Upheld

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court today affirmed the first degree murder conviction of Benjamin E. Meyer, 25, Logan, for killing his wife, Belvia, 27, on Feb. 15, 1954 during a quarrel.

The high court's judges split 5-2 in the decision. Meyer's electrocution is set for June 3.

17-YEAR-OLD FRANK SANTANA (left) and Ralph Falcon, 16, are shown in custody in New York, where Santana, an amateur boxer, is accused of shooting to death another boy, William Blankenship, Jr., 15, as an outgrowth of boys' gang warfare over similarity of black jacket "uniforms." The victim, according to police, did not belong to either gang, but when a pal of Santana's pointed Santana's gun at him, said, "Don't point that gun at me," and Santana grabbed the gun and shot him through the heart.

Ohio Shows Light Interest In Yesterday's Primary Poll

COLUMBUS (AP)—Primary elections in 52 Ohio counties yesterday stirred only mild interest.

One village held its first primary election. In Warren, a high school football coach was nominated as candidate for mayor. In Findlay, only 30 per cent of eligible voters cast ballots in approving the expenditure of $2 million.

There were 45 communities holding Republican and Democratic primaries at the same time where the two parties had more than one candidate from which to choose. Other areas had only one party problems, like Greenville.

In Columbus, officials reported a moderately heavy vote to select mayoral candidates. Incumbent M. E. Sensenbrenner, lone Democrat in a Republican-controlled county, scored 21,844 votes in the unofficial tally while his Republican rival, Councilman Joseph R. Jones, netted 18,094. Republicans had to split their choice between Jones and Councilman Jerry Spears who scored 12,209 votes.

Sensenbrenner and Jones will be matched next November.

IN ELYRIA, election officials termed the primary "one of the hottest in years" when Archie West won 3-1 over Gerald Martin.

JAKOBHAVN, Greenland (AP)—Rescue boats fought through drifting ice today in an attempt to save dozens of fishermen marooned on three ice floes off the west coast of Greenland.

Final OK Is Seen In Offing For Ike's Tariff Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate begins voting today on President Eisenhower's foreign trade bill with its sponsors confident they can beat any crippling amendments. Final passage was expected by tonight.

Eisenhower has called the bill one of the most vital in his 1955 program and has said enlightened trade policies among free world nations can be the key to peace.

Nevertheless, it met considerable opposition in Congress because of fears that any new tariff concessions would seriously harm certain American industries. The bill would extend the 21-year-old reciprocal trade law three more years, and give the chief executive new authority to cut tariffs another 15 per cent in exchange for trade concessions from other nations.

for the Republican nomination for mayor.

In Circleville, Councilman John Robinson won the Democratic nomination for mayor over Ray Harris, a barber. Robinson will face Republican Mayor Robert Hedges in November. Their meeting will be a repeat performance of two years ago when Hedges won handily.

In its first primary in the village's history, Blanchester renominated Mayor Harry Patterson. Only 30 per cent of eligible voters turned out in Findlay to approve a $2 million school bond issue for new buildings and a city recreation levy.

One of the smallest primaries in years was reported in Lebanon where Republican Mayor William Fraser was renominated to oppose Democrat James Templeton.

In Greenville, Democratic voters established a two-way tie in mayoralty balloting, giving 228 votes to both attorney Max Harley and Tillman D. Hathaway.

The Darke County election board plans to make the official vote count tomorrow, and if the tie still stands will refer the deadlock to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.

Voters in Chillicothe put Democrat Harold Uhrig, a printer, ahead of Mayor Burton Stevenson, serving his first term.

Warren Democrats selected high school football Coach Charles F. Riffe to oppose Republican Mayor William C. Burbank. School bus driver Paul C. Hill of Tallmadge, Summit County, won the Democratic nomination for mayor over Bert G. Karg, truant officer.

Sam's Defense Sees Acquittal In 'Evidence'

Cleveland Judge Hears Plea For New Trial For Convicted Slayer

CLEVELAND (AP)—Defense attorneys argued today a jury would have acquitted Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard had it heard technical testimony that a strange intruder left a drop of blood at the scene of Marilyn Sheppard's murder.

The Bay Village osteopath is seeking a new trial on a claim of newly discovered evidence. He was convicted Dec. 21 of slaying his pregnant wife last July 4 and is under life sentence.

In a hearing before the trial judge, Edward Blythin, the defense centered its drive for a new trial around an investigation conducted in January by Dr. Paul L. Kirk, professor of criminalistics at the University of California.

A week ago, Dr. Kirk offered a 50-page affidavit. One of its principal points was that the victim bit her attacker's hand, causing blood to flow. Dr. Kirk said a blood spot on a wardrobe door belonged to neither of the Sheppards.

The state replied with an affidavit by Dr. Roger W. Marsters, of University Hospital here, who said the analytical methods used by Dr. Kirk made his conclusions "certainly unwarranted."

DR. KIRK's affidavit conceded the spot was type "O" blood, the same as the type of the murdered woman's blood. But he said the specimen reacted differently in agglutination tests.

Today the defense struck back at Dr. Marsters' affidavit.

Defense Atty. William Corrigan offered an affidavit that Dr. Kirk had read the Marsters report and had told him (Corrigan) by telephone that Dr. Marsters was mistaken. Dr. Kirk defended his techniques and challenged Dr. Marsters' qualifications.

Defense Atty. Arthur Petersilge told the court the jury would not have convicted Dr. Sheppard of second degree murder had it heard Dr. Kirk testify.

A jury convicted Sheppard last Dec. 21. Judge Blythin earlier turned down a motion for a new trial on a basis of errors in the original 10-week trial, and a defense appeal from that turnout is scheduled to be heard May 23.

On Monday the state countered the "newly discovered evidence" claims with affidavits saying no new evidence had been produced in the crime.

Deputy Dismissed In Labor Dispute

CLEVELAND (AP)—"I didn't want to be another case of Cain and Abel," one of the O'Malley brothers said today.

Thomas J. O'Malley, 53, a sheriff's deputy since 1937, was fired yesterday for refusing to help escort airplane parts through a picket line that included his brother.

Sheriff Joseph M. Sweeney said O'Malley "wouldn't do what he was told to do and that's it."

O'Malley refused to help escort a truck loaded with airplane parts removed by court order from the Cleveland Welding Co. plant, now struck by the AFL Machinists Union.

Court Reverses Damages Award

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's Supreme Court today unanimously reversed a Licking County court award of damages to Iva Z. Council for injuries received in an automobile collision Jan. 6, 1951.

She was a passenger in a car in collision with another owned by Hugh Douglas and driven by Kenneth Cooksey, attendant at a filling station in Utica. Cooksey was taking Douglas' car to the station for servicing.

Lower courts held against Douglas but the Supreme Court reversed on ground that he was not responsible for any negligence of Cooksey in driving his car to the station.

U. S. Said Favoring King For Strife-Torn Viet Nam

SAIGON (AP)—The United States today was reported recommending that a constitutional monarchy be established for strife-torn South Viet Nam.

As authoritative sources revealed this current American position, local and provincial Vietnamese leaders flocked to Saigon for a special congress called by Premier Ng Dinh Diem to act on the National Revolutionary Committee's demand for the ouster of chief of state Bao Dai, the ex-emperor.

From his luxurious villa on the French Riviera, Bao Dai denounced the congress, or "states general" as illegal.

The American position was said to be that because of South Viet Nam's political immaturity, the stabilizing influence of a monarchy with only limited powers is needed to give continuity and avoid chaos.

The sources said that should local sentiment prove too great against Bao Dai, his son Bao Long or some other member of the former royal house could be designated ruler with tightly circumscribed powers.

Bao Dai, now 42, succeeded to the throne of the central Viet Nam kingdom of Annam in 1926. A puppet first of the French and then of the Japanese during the occupation, he abdicated at the end of the war and became a "supreme counselor" in the postwar revolutionary government of Communist Ho Chi Minh.

Early in 1946 he fled to Hong Kong and lived in exile there or on the French Riviera. The French brought him back in 1949 to be chief of state for Viet Nam. He went to France in April 1954 and hasn't been back to Saigon since.

Sentiment against the playboy ex-emperor increased in Saigon today. Newspapers appearing a few hours before the states general assembly gathered carried violent attacks against him.

Some published photographs of him crossed by large black marks. One displayed a picture of Bao Dai with his bulldog and asked, "Which is the more interesting?"

The Vietnamese move to oust Bao Dai followed his attempt last week to supplant Premier Diem with Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, a supporter of the chief of state.

The army refused to follow Vy, who fled into the hills.

In a cable to Diem, Bao Dai last night challenged the authority of the special congress and said its "illegality does not even need to be proved."

Lausche Stand On Conference Given Airing

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than a dozen Democratic governors stayed over after an administration-sponsored governors' conference today to talk over various problems.

Highway and mental health legislation were high on the agenda for the first public session arranged by Democratic leaders. Discussion of 1956 campaign plans and intraparty affairs was listed for a later closed session.

Two Democratic governors—Avell Harriman of New York and Frank Lausche of Ohio—differed sharply over the propriety of the Democratic conference. Harriman stayed for it and Lausche didn't.

All 27 of the Democratic governors were invited by Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler to attend today's party powwow. Fourteen said they would stay, with three more possible. Others said they had state business to return to or didn't reply to the invitation.

GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall accused Butler of trying to make "a political sounding board" out of the conference called by President Eisenhower.

Hall cited a statement by Ohio Gov. Lausche saying he did not intend to help figure out "ways and means of defeating the man (Eisenhower) who has just been my host."

Asked about Lausche's stand at a news conference last night, Gov. Harriman said:

"I totally and utterly disagree with Lausche. We are here as governors, not as guests of the President of the United States."

15-Year-Old Bride Faces Accusation

WASHINGTON C. H. (AP)—Mrs. Diana Buskirk, 15, was a bride of one day when two cars crashed near here Sunday, killing three persons. Yesterday the young bride was charged with three counts of manslaughter.

Sheriff Orland Hays, who filed affidavits against the girl in juvenile court, said she was driving without a driver's license or learner's permit. Mrs. Buskirk is recovering from her injuries in a Columbus hospital.

Killed in the crash were sisters Portia Estle, 7, and Millicent Estle, 3, of this city and Attorney William H. Blough, 52, Shelbyville, Tenn. The two girls were in the car driven by Mrs. Buskirk. Blough was alone.

Lancaster Canteen Company Is Sold

NEW YORK (AP)—The Lancaster, Ohio, branch of Automatic Canteen Co. of America has been sold to William Cooper, an independent vendor who will operate it as a distributor.

Two other branches in Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex., were sold to Joseph and James Dobson Vending Co. of Dallas under a similar arrangement.

All Kids Will Get Salk Polio Shots

Ike Assures That Ability To Pay Will Not Be Any Consideration

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that the federal government intends to see that no American child ever goes without the new polio vaccine because of inability to pay for it.

But the President told his weekly press conference that while he has given all sorts of consideration to federal controls over distribution of the vaccine, he still thinks the voluntary method is best.

The White House said later the President will ask authority, if necessary, to buy all commercial supplies.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said Eisenhower will seek authority to buy all of the Salk product which the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis does not take for the free inoculation of first and second graders, if that is necessary to meet the pledge.

Hagerty said that if a situation developed where some children could not get an inoculation because of lack of money, "the President would immediately ask the Congress of the United States for authority to permit the secretary of health, education and welfare to buy the entire output of the vaccine, other than that already allocated to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis."

Volunteering his remarks about the vaccine program, Eisenhower also said government officials are convinced the present inoculation program should go ahead despite development of paralytic polio by a few youngsters who have received vaccine produced by one firm.

The President said that in his opinion it is both safe and wise to go ahead with the inoculations. Eisenhower's views were expressed after House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts said he favors "some federal supervision" over distribution of the vaccine.

MARTIN THUS joined a growing number of House members and senators in both political parties advocating temporary controls. Their goal to assure that while supplies are still scarce, the vaccine goes first to children in (Continued on Page Two)

SURVIVAL CITY, Nev. (AP)—Bad winds and clouds forced another postponement today of the much-delayed open atomic shot. The prospect for firing tomorrow was not regarded as favorable because of an approaching storm off the California coast.

Northern Big City Solons Hold Key To Farm Bill Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Northern big-city Democrats with large numbers of consumer constituents appeared to hold the balance of power today as the House neared a showdown on farm price supports.

It was a repeat performance of last year's farm battle, save that the House this time is being asked to reverse last year's administration victory establishing a program of flexible price supports on basic crops.

Both sides concentrated their attention on the consumer and members from large city districts in the debate preceding a final vote scheduled for late today. Democrats generally supported the bill; Republicans were mostly lined up against it.

Before the House was a will which would scrap the administration program of supports ranging from 82½ to 90 per cent of parity, and substitute for it a program of rigid supports at 90 per cent of parity in effect until this year.

Parity is a legal standard designed to afford the farmer a fair return on his crops in relation to his costs.

TO ASSERTIONS that farm income was down 22 per cent since 1951, Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts replied that "these depressing conditions all come about while price supports were rigidly pegged at 90 per cent of parity."

Rep. Cooley (D-NC), chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said it is not true that farm state members are in "some kind of a vicious coalition" with organized labor.

Cooley hotly rejected suggestions that farm leaders plan to repay organized labor for its support by voting later for an increase in the federal minimum wage.

Robinson Wins Nomination For Mayor's Post

Stocklen Is Picked By Dems To Stay In Treasurer Job

In a lukewarm Democrat primary election here Tuesday, Councilman George Crites—by a margin of six votes—was picked to run again in November as council's spokesman for the city's third ward.

Crites, who edged out Walden E. Reichelderfer, 36 to 30, had gone on record again Monday in favor of a city income tax as the "only way out" of the municipality's growing need for major improvements. There was no immediate way to determine to what extent his strong stand in favor of the levy figured in voting.

Councilman John Robinson, by nearly 2 to 1, defeated Ray W. Harris for the nomination for mayor. In the only other contest in the all-Democrat balloting, City Treasurer Everett P. (Dutch) Stocklen was nominated for re-election.

Unofficial estimates were that less than 500 city residents went to the polls despite ideal weather. No primary was required to determine the Republican slate for November.

WHEN HE renewed his suggestion for the city income tax almost on the eve of election, Crites said he realized he was risking "political suicide."

Crites and Reichelderfer each carried their home precinct by a few votes. William N. Thomas, a third candidate for the third ward councilman job, gathered a total of 23 votes.

Balloting for the three candidates in the ward's two precincts was as follows:

3-A—Crites, 19; Reichelderfer, 10; Thomas, 8.

3-B—Crites, 17; Reichelderfer, 20; Thomas, 15.

RESULTS OF the two city-wide contests were:

For mayor—Robinson, 282; Harris, 151.

For treasurer—Stocklen, 185; Melvin Yates, 148; Loring Davis, 133.

Council Again Talks Of Sewer Hike

Leist Reviews Urgent Need Of Major Project

Utilities Head Admits Financing Difficult; No Action Taken

City council Tuesday night renewed talk of the huge sewer improvement program to serve the city's northern sections.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) in a lengthy speech last night called the bill "namby-pamby" and "innocuous," claiming it provides little real additional power to broaden trade.

He said Eisenhower has "failed to give leadership" in the trade fight, but that Democrats would support the bill even though "its chief value is symbolic."

Cleveland Judge Hears Pleas For New Trial For Convicted Slayer

15-Year-Old Bride Faces Accusation

WASHINGTON C. H. (AP)—Mrs. Diana Buskirk, 15, was a bride of one day when two cars crashed near here Sunday, killing three persons. Yesterday the young bride was charged with three counts of manslaughter.

Sheriff Orland Hays, who filed affidavits against the girl in juvenile court, said she was driving without a driver's license or learner's permit. Mrs. Buskirk is recovering from her injuries in a Columbus hospital.

Killed in the crash were sisters Portia Estle, 7, and Millicent Estle, 3, of this city and Attorney William H. Blough, 52, Shelbyville, Tenn. The two girls were in the car driven by Mrs. Buskirk. Blough was alone.

All Kids Will Get Salk Polio Shots

Ike Assures That Ability To Pay Will Not Be Any Consideration

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that the federal government intends to see that no American child ever goes without the new polio vaccine because of inability to pay for it.

But the President told his weekly press conference that while he has given all sorts of consideration to federal controls over distribution of the vaccine, he still thinks the voluntary method is best.

The White House said later the President will ask authority, if necessary, to buy all commercial supplies.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said Eisenhower will seek authority to buy all of the Salk product which the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis does not take for the free inoculation of first and second graders, if that is necessary to meet the pledge.

Hagerty said that if a situation developed where some children could not get an inoculation because of lack of money, "the President would immediately ask the Congress of the United States for authority to permit the secretary of health, education and welfare to buy the entire output of the vaccine, other than that already allocated to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis."

Volunteering his remarks about the vaccine program, Eisenhower also said government officials are convinced the present inoculation program should go ahead despite development of paralytic polio by a few youngsters who have received vaccine produced by one firm.

The President said that in his opinion it is both safe and wise to go ahead with the inoculations. Eisenhower's views were expressed after House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts said he favors "some federal supervision" over distribution of the vaccine.

MARTIN THUS joined a growing number of House members and senators in both political parties advocating temporary controls. Their goal to assure that while supplies are still scarce, the vaccine goes first to children in

Northern Big City Solons Hold Key To Farm Bill Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Northern big-city Democrats with large numbers of consumer constituents appeared to hold the balance of power today as the House neared a showdown on farm price supports.

It was a repeat performance of last year's farm battle, save that the House this time is being asked to reverse last year's administration victory establishing a program of flexible price supports on basic crops.

Both sides concentrated their attention on the consumer and members from large city districts in the debate preceding a final vote scheduled for late today. Democrats generally supported the bill; Republicans were mostly lined up against it.

Before the House was a will which would scrap the administration program of supports ranging from 82 1/2 to 90 per cent of parity, and substitute for it a program of

Robinson Wins Nomination For Mayor's Post

Stocklen Is Picked By Dems To Stay In Treasurer Job

In a lukewarm Democrat primary election here Tuesday, Councilman George Crites—by a margin of six votes—was picked to run again in November as council's spokesman for the city's third ward.

Crites, who edged out Walden E. Reichelderfer, 36 to 30, had gone on record again Monday in favor of a city income tax as the "only way out" of the municipality's growing need for major improvements. There was no immediate way to determine to what extent his strong stand in favor of the levy figured in voting.

Councilman John Robinson, by nearly 2 to 1, defeated Ray W. Harris for the nomination for mayor. In the only other contest in the all-Democrat balloting, City Treasurer Everett P. (Dutch) Stocklen was nominated for re-election.

Unofficial estimates were that less than 500 city residents went to the polls despite ideal weather. No primary was required to determine the Republican slate for November.

WHEN HE renewed his suggestion for the city income tax almost on the eve of election, Crites said he realized he was risking "political suicide."

Crites and Reichelderfer each carried their home precinct by a few votes. William N. Thomas, a third candidate for the third ward councilman job, gathered a total of 23 votes.

Balloting for the three candidates in the ward's two precincts was as follows:

3-A—Crites, 19; Reichelderfer, 10; Thomas, 8.

3-B—Crites, 17; Reichelderfer, 20; Thomas, 15.

RESULTS OF the two city-wide contests were:

For mayor—Robinson, 282; Harris, 151.

For treasurer—Stocklen, 185; Melvin Yates, 148; Loring Davis, 133.

City Solicitor George Gerhardt, who did not file for re-election in

DROODLES

BY ROGER PRICE

"PSYCHIATRIST INTERVIEWING SHY PATIENT"

My Sister Thelma had a psychological problem when she was 11 years old. In those days we used to have a lot of company back home and every time strangers were in the parlor Thelma would sneak down the hall and poke her head into the room. On the end of a stick. It was unnerving and we would've sent her away to a Psychiatrist but Father wouldn't allow it. You see, Thelma had two big buck teeth and he like to keep her around the house so he'd always have some place to open his beer cans. But today Thelma is perfectly adjusted. She never does anything eccentric. Just sits quietly in her trunk and makes Droodles. Nothing could be more normal than that!

Bethel, Vt. (AP)—A barrage of tear gas has ended the holdout of gun-toting Justice of the Peace Manuel Miller, 47, who stood off federal and state authorities for 12 hours yesterday in a futile attempt to keep his wife out of a mental hospital.
Miller and his wife, Lucille, 44, parents of three children, surrendered last night in their gas-filled home. She will be confined to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D. C.; he will face undetermined federal charges.
The mild-mannered Miller, a school committeeman and former selectman, began the siege at 10 a. m. EST, when he refused admittance to U. S. Marshal Dewey H. Perry bearing a federal order for Mrs. Miller's commitment.
Mrs. Miller, publisher of a mimeographed anti-Communist leaflet called The Green Mountain Rifleman, was adjudged insane in federal court in Burlington April 18 as the outgrowth of an indictment charging her with influencing young men to evade the draft.
Throughout the day, Miller, armed with a rifle, defied all efforts by authorities to remove his wife from their two-story frame home. He ordered out Vermont Public Safety Commissioner William H. Baumann at gunpoint.
After 12 hours siege authorities fired tear gas shells through downstairs windows of the Miller home. Ten minutes later, the couple appeared and surrendered.

Leist Reviews Urgent Need Of Major Project

ity to call in financing experts to help thaw out the question.
Meanwhile, the old measure was pushed back in the pigeon hole while the new discussions grope for something different.
In the course of a review of the whole picture, Leist reminded the lawmakers that basic plans for the big sewer job have been waiting for action ever since the voters turned down a bond issue for sewer improvements. The issue lost by a narrow margin.
THE WAITING plans referred to in this connection are those for sewer improvements south of Forest Cemetery. The whole master plan goes beyond those limits, looking ahead to the city's northward expansion in addition to needs already apparent.
In Tuesday night's debate, there was a hint that the sewer planning may become entangled in politics with the approach of the November voting.
When Mayor Bob Hedges declared Circleville has the lowest sewer rate in the country, his statement was challenged by Councilman John Robinson.
Robinson was nominated in Tuesday's Democratic primary to face Hedges, a Republican, in the Fall election.
Robinson said that preliminary studies he made, along with Councilman Clarence Helvering, indicate that the big master plan can be modified considerably—and that an increase in rates possibly can be avoided.
"I think the Court St. sewer is overloaded now only after heavy rains," Robinson said. "And anyway we're sure how big this city is going to grow."

HEDGES, in reply, told Robinson: "I feel that the engineers who drew up these plans are more capable to judge all those things than members of this council."
The plans were drawn by the firm of Burgess and Niple, Columbus engineering consultants.
Shortly before the subject matter of the sewer project was up for discussion, Councilman George Crites said he is not satisfied that it is fair to increase sewer rates all over the city to help finance the project new vision.

People in other sections of the city, he said, "would get no benefits, yet they would be made help pay for it."
Leist agreed with Crites that the financing plans would have to face a difficult path, but he pointed out there is no alternative for the city at the present time, "and at least it's a way to get the thing started."

Council Turns Down Another Plan On N. Scioto St. Parking

Another effort to juggle parking rules on a stretch of N. Scioto St. was thrown for a loss in city council meeting Tuesday night.
Just when passage seemed to be in the making, four councilmen suddenly ganged up on an ordinance that would have prohibited parking on the east side of the Scioto between Pinckney and High streets. It was up for third reading, and thus was defeated.
Councilman Ray Cook, Clarence Helvering, Boyd Horn and John Robinson all voted against the idea.
Some time ago, council studied and passed a measure that tightened parking regulations in the same neighborhood on N. Scioto. But Mayor Bob Hedges, acting at the request of merchants and residents of the district, vetoed the legislation.

THE LATEST measure died under somewhat mysterious circumstances.
It moved through its first two readings without causing more than a ripple in council's deliberations. Mayor Hedges said he had been asked to launch the legislation, and that he had been promised a "spokesman" for it would appear before the lawmakers.
He said that again Tuesday night, just before the four opponents lowered the boom. The lawmakers, earlier in their session, heard reading of a petition supporting the measure. But this only led to considerable discussion as to whether the petitioners lived on the west or east side of Scioto.
There was also some talk on whether or not the petitioners owned automobiles.
However, the end came quickly when the ordinance came up for a vote. Its supporters either seemed to feel it could roll through, or were reconciled that it did not stand a chance.
Councilmen Richard Penn, Harold Clifton and George Crites voted for the defeated proposal.

1-Car Mishaps Strike Twice In Two Days

After somewhat of a lull in traffic mishaps here, Pickaway County chalked up two accidents in as many days.
Tuesday afternoon, a motorcyclist was rushed to Berger Hospital with bruises, abrasions and lacerations over most of his body in a collision on Route 22, just west of Circleville.
Wednesday morning, a Mt. Sterling teenager received lacerations to his left arm and elbow when his truck overturned twice on Route 56 near the Pickaway-Madison County line.
State Patrolman Bob Greene reported that the cyclist, Glenn Davidson, 25, of Mingo Junction, apparently ignored the turn signals on a truck in front of him. Both vehicles were traveling west.

THE TRUCK, driven by Elmon Richards, 48, was allegedly making a left turn into Canal Rd. Davidson apparently picked that moment to try to pass the truck.
The motorcycle was knocked 25 feet from the road by the impact, the patrolman commented.
Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said that the 17-year-old lad, Donald Moore, of Mt. Sterling Route 1, apparently got off the berm of the road and rolled over at least two times.

House Group Upholds Cut In Army Size

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Appropriations subcommittee has rejected a move aimed at avoiding a planned cut of 75,000 in Army strength during the coming year.
Rep. Flood (D-Pa.) disclosed today he had failed in an effort to get the subcommittee to add about $750 million to funds for the Army during the year starting July 1. He said he would try again tomorrow when the full Appropriations Committee meets to consider a multibillion-dollar bill to finance the armed service.
If necessary, he said, he will carry his fight to the House floor.
The administration's defense policy, based on greater reliance on air power and new weapons, contemplates scaling down all of the armed services except the Air Force. Plans call for the Army to be down to 1,102,000 men.
Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army chief of staff, has opposed the Army cut, contending atomic age warfare calls for more, rather than fewer, fighting men.
Flood paralleled Ridgway's argument in saying "I cannot agree that atomic warfare presupposes the need for fewer ground troops."

Ability To Pay Not To Be Any Consideration

the 5 to 9 age group, which is most susceptible to polio.
Most of the plans call for younger children to get the next priority. Several bills also would control prices of the vaccine.
Marti said he had no recommendations but thought a House committee "should look into" the matter of controls.
Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the House Banking Committee, which handles and controls legislation, said he hoped to be able to start hearings by Friday.
Eisenhower also dealt with these other topics at his conference:
CEASE - FIRE — Eisenhower said that at the moment the United States is in a sort of wait-and-see position with respect to possible talks between this country and Red China on a cease-fire in the Formosa area.
He added there are a number of countries, apart from the United States, which are interesting themselves in the prospect of a cease-fire. There is nothing new on the subject, he said.
POSTAL PAY — Eisenhower avoided saying whether he will veto a bill to increase the pay of postal workers an average of 8.8 per cent. He indicated a few weeks ago he would refuse to sign any bill providing for a greater hike than 7.6 per cent. But to questions today, Eisenhower said only that he looks for the bill to be on his desk shortly and he will give it careful study.

A SENATE-House Conference Committee agreed yesterday on a measure calling for an 8.8 per cent increase. The measure still is subject to action by the House and Senate as a whole.
FARM—The President said the administration program of flexible farm price supports, which went into effect this year, is good legislation but so far there has not been adequate time for it to prove itself.
Speaking out against the House bill, now up for debate, providing for a return to a rigid price support program, the President said all of what he termed under that old program.
QUOMOY AND MATSU—Asked what the yardstick will be if he should be faced with a decision whether to defend the Chinese Nationalist offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu, Eisenhower indicated that he would try to decide whether any attack by the Chinese Reds was aimed exclusively at those islands or, in the long run, at Formosa itself.
The Reds, Eisenhower commented, never have made any assertions that they intend to conquer Quemoy and Matsu, their claims have been that they are out to take Formosa.
ZHUKOV — There has been no further correspondence between the President and Marshal Georgi Zhukov, Russia's new defense minister, Eisenhower said. The President disclosed last week that he and Zhukov had been in confidential correspondence which, Eisenhower said, held out some slim hope for improvement of relations.

More Publicity Demanded On School Plans

Councilman George Crites declared Tuesday night that the Circleville Board of Education too often keeps details of its planning and fund allocations to itself.
He emphasized he does not challenge the integrity of the board members. But he added: "They spend five times as much money as we (members of council) do, but most of the time you never hear how they're doing it. On the other hand, everytime we spend $100 everybody knows about it."
"The school board has made a good many mistakes in the past, and I know that nothing can be done about that now. But I think if some of their projects would get a little more airing, the public would be better served."

"WE GAVE them a blank check for a million dollars and we don't know what they're doing with it. The school board has its meetings, in private, as far as I know," Crites opened his sudden criticism of the school board while council was studying an ordinance by which the city would vacate parts of two alleys near Corwin School, needed for building and playground space in the city-wide school building program.
The measure was held to first reading.
Councilman Boyd Horn said the school board and council should get together "and talk things over."

Inlaw Slaying Trial Continues

MOUNT VERNON (AP)—Testimony continues today in the trial of Glenn D. Hoffer, 24, charged with the murder and rape of his mother-in-law. Hoffer was separated from his wife, Trulah, at the time of the murder.
The jury yesterday visited the home where Mrs. Sheila Hamon, 38, was shot and killed last Jan. 17, then toured the spot a few miles away where her husband, Stirling, 40, was shot the same day.
Hoffer, who lived in Crestline, was indicted on both actions, but is presently being tried only for first-degree murder. He has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

AFL-CIO Merger's Meaning

Top Union Leaders Oppose Formation Of Labor Party

Editor's Note: Following is the third in a series of five articles on the merger of the AFL and CIO unions and what it may mean to the nation.

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP)—Organized labor—15 million strong—is going deeper into politics, but the high command is strongly opposed to a political labor party such as that in Great Britain.

Labor's top chiefs say that after the coming merger of the AFL and CIO, unions will remain an independent political force. But they concede that Democratic candidates are far more likely to benefit from labor's political action than Republicans.

Some labor leaders imply that if unions cannot achieve their goals through the two-party system, they may have to turn in another direction.

AFL President George Meany, who will head the merged AFL-CIO organization, gave these views in an interview:

"As long as I have anything to say about it, the AFL will not tie itself to any political party. I don't believe in a labor class or a labor party along class lines such as the British Labor party. I don't believe in it just as I don't think there should be a political party in this country along denominational lines."

"There will be increased political action by labor in 1956. But political action by organized labor doesn't mean we will tie ourselves to any party. There is talk that labor is going to join forces with the Democratic party. Well, I'm not going to tie the AFL to any party, anytime, anywhere."

"That doesn't mean, of course, that we won't support more Democrats than Republicans because that probably will be just the way it works out. The facts are that more Democrats have favorable records from our point of view than Republicans."

"The merged unions will make their political drive through a single organization which will be formed with the merger of the AFL's Labor League for Political Education and the CIO's Political Action Committee."

The AFL and CIO set up these political action groups after passage in 1947 of the Taft-Hartley law, which forbids unions from taking dues money out of union treasuries and spending it in support of any candidate for federal office.

These groups accept voluntary contributions from workers, and since it is not dues money, there are no strings on spending it in direct support of any candidate. But won't the effect of such political action actually mean drawing labor into closer working arrangements with the Democratic party, which now gets most of labor's support?

Meany replied: "I will say this. If the time should ever come when we are forced to do such a thing—tie ourselves to any party—then it will be our own party."

"We are going to try to achieve our aims on a nonpartisan basis. But if the nonpartisan effort fails, then we'll go somewhere else. We'll go where we must go. And we'll go as far down that road as it is necessary to go."

It is known that Walter Reuther, president of the CIO, and John L. Lewis, chief of the United Mine workers, both share Meany's misgivings toward a national labor party in the United States.

Thomas Kennedy, vice president of the UMW, whose views often reflect the thinking of Lewis, had this to say:

"There is no need for a labor party in the United States. The American labor movement is essentially an economic movement and if it fails to realize this and to continue to act in behalf of its own membership to win better wages and working conditions through economic action, the UMW feels that it will suffer the fate of much of the European labor movement."

Lewis reportedly thinks Meany and Reuther are going too far into politics even with their present plans for more vigorous political action.

But there are some who think labor should have its own state labor parties if not a national party. The viewpoint of this group was voiced last December in the CIO convention by Mike Quill, president of the Transport Workers of America.

To Quill's argument, Reuther replied:

"Building third parties will get us no one anywhere. Every try has failed miserably, not because the motives or the reasons or the morality behind it was wrong, but because we are dealing with a structure in America that does not lend itself to the creation of third party movements."

"Basically what we are trying to do is work within the two-party system of America and bring about within that two-party system a fundamental realignment of basic political forces so that political parties can become responsible."

Meany himself believes the coming AFL-CIO merger, with the creation of single political action department, will take labor farther away from the idea of a national labor party.

"Under unified leadership, I'm convinced we will be more successful in the course which we have followed," he said.

Two Measures By Horn Have To Start Over

Two measures sponsored by Councilman Boyd Horn were set aside Tuesday night when they were submitted to lead off the list of new business at city council's regular meeting.

The double false start came on an ordinance that would authorize purchase of a strip of land at the east end of Logan St. and on a resolution calling for a street light near the Lon Starkey residence. Although council declined to act on either measure, it was indicated both would be up for decision after being revised.

The proposed purchase of a strip of land at the east end of Logan St. would give the city a connection with the Town St. extension.

However, after the ordinance was read, it was noted that no price had been included for payment to the land owners. And Horn's colleagues told him: "There's no use trying to pass the ordinance until you find out whether they (the property owners) will take what the city offers."

CONSULTED ON the legislation, City Service Director Dewey Speakman said it would seem to be a wise move for the city to "try and straighten out that whole corner." It was agreed this line of thought would be studied further, and that the measure meanwhile can wait.

The sidetracked resolution called for "an additional light... at the Lon Starkey residence, the position to be designated by the councilman of the Fourth Ward (Horn)."

Horn moved for adoption of the resolution, but when he was queried on the needs involved, he said the objection was to a "small bulb" in a light that is already at the location. Other members of

Teachers Easier To Find If Requirements Are Tough

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—School administrators are finding that one way to get and keep teachers—a sore problem for 15 years now—is to make it harder to be a teacher. The number of states requiring a college degree in education to teach in elementary schools now is nearing 35, and others are planning to put degree requirements into effect.

A group of school superintendents attending a conference of presidents of state associations of administrators here discussed this development in a panel interview today.

"We put in a requirement for a degree about three years ago," said Dale Whitenack, of Vancouver, Wash., "and, as many states have found, we discovered that the higher the requirements, the better are the chances of getting teachers."

"The first question prospective teachers usually ask our recruiters is 'What are your requirements?' Money is important too, but most of all they seem to want to work where their associates are well trained."

"It's only the same thing that the bar and medical profession did 40 or 50 years ago," commented William H. Buker, Holden, Mass. "They raised their standards, and you can see the results."

Massachusetts has required a degree for some years. Several states—Kansas and Louisiana, for example—have required them for junior and senior high schools and are beginning to put a degree requirement into effect for elementary schools.

The Kansas plan, as explained by Supt. Hugh C. Bryan, of Leavenworth, will be in full operation by the fall of 1959.

"Next year," Bryan said, "a person may get a provisional certificate with as few as 60 credit hours. But this will be good for only one year. For each renewal he must take eight additional hours and keep on doing that until he gets his degree."

Many communities in states which still recognize teaching certificates based on experience or degrees earned in other fields are ignoring this and are upgrading their faculties on their own.

Subways In Icecap Studied By Army

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army is experimenting with subways dug into the ice as a means of travel across Greenland's icecap.

If the experiment is a success, presumably there would be a network of subways through the 700,000 square miles of ice, dozens of feet deep.

Experimental tunnels and corridors have been maintained by the Army several years. One goes down to a depth of 150 feet.

An advance party of 240 men left Ft. Belvoir, Va., recently to conduct additional tests and experiments to see if subway networks would be profitable.

Telephone Strike Affects A-Plants

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP)—Atomic plants were affected by the telephone strike for the first time today when two private lines between the plants at Paducah, Oak Ridge were severed.

Service was out 8 hours. The vandalism, Southern Bell Telephone Co. officials said, was part of that in which 100 phone circuits were cut in "an attempt to isolate Paducah."

Boy Has 21 Reasons For Wanting Dog

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP)—A dog was stolen from the city dog pound and a 7-year-old boy has 21 reasons for wanting it returned. The dog is suspected of being rabid. And the boy, bitten last week by the dog, will have to take the 21-shot Pasteur treatment for rabies, just to be safe.

24 Paratroopers Bruised In Leap

PANAMA (AP)—Twenty-four U. S. Army paratroopers were recovering today from injuries suffered in a mass drop during a war games exercise. The most serious injury was a broken nose.

Gusty winds which dragged the men over the ground were blamed for the mishap.

A total of 480 men of the 11th Airborne Division from Ft. Campbell, Ky., took part in the mass jump, staged at Rio Hato, 75 miles from Panama City.

The names of the injured were not disclosed.

Thousands of spectators and 250 Latin-American observers watched as the paratroopers jumped in waves of 120 each from six Globemaster transports.

Meany replied: "I will say this. If the time should ever come when we are forced to do such a thing—tie ourselves to any party—then it will be our own party.

"We are going to try to achieve our aims on a nonpartisan basis. But if the nonpartisan effort fails, then we'll go somewhere else. We'll go where we must go. And we'll go as far down that road as it is necessary to go."

It is known that Walter Reuther, president of the CIO, and John L. Lewis, chief of the United Mine workers, both share Meany's misgivings toward a national labor party in the United States.

Thomas Kennedy, vice president of the UMW, whose views often reflect the thinking of Lewis, had this to say:

"There is no need for a labor party in the United States. The American labor movement is essentially an economic movement and if it fails to realize this and to continue to act in behalf of its own membership to win better wages and working conditions through economic action, the UMW feels that it will suffer the fate of much of the European labor movement."

Lewis reportedly thinks Meany and Reuther are going too far into politics even with their present plans for more vigorous political action.

But there are some who think labor should have its own state labor parties if not a national party. The viewpoint of this group was voiced last December in the CIO convention by Mike Quill, president of the Transport Workers of America.

To Quill's argument, Reuther replied:

"Building third parties will get no one anywhere. Every try has failed miserably, not because the motives or the reasons or the morality behind it was wrong, but because we are dealing with a structure in America that does not lend itself to the creation of third party movements . . .

"Basically what we are trying to do is work within the two-party system of America and bring about within that two-party system a fundamental realignment of basic political forces so that political parties can become responsible . . .

Meany himself believes the coming AFL-CIO merger, with the creation of single political action department, will take labor farther away from the idea of a national labor party.

"Under unified leadership, I'm convinced we will be more successful in the course which we have followed," he said.

Tomorrow: The role of John L. Lewis.

Two Measures By Horn Have To Start Over

Two measures sponsored by Councilman Boyd Horn were set aside Tuesday night when they were submitted to lead off the list of new business at city council's regular meeting.

The double false start came on an ordinance that would authorize purchase of a strip of land at the east end of Logan St. and on a resolution calling for a street light near the Lon Starkey residence. Although council declined to act on either measure, it was indicated both would be up for decision after being revised.

The proposed purchase of a strip of land at the east end of Logan St. would give the city a connection with the Town St. extension.

However, after the ordinance was read, it was noted that no price had been included for payment to the land owners. And Horn's colleagues told him: "There's no use trying to pass the ordinance until you find out whether they (the property owners) will take what the city offers."

CONSULTED ON the legislation, City Service Director Dewey Speakman said it would seem to be a wiser move for the city to "try and straighten out that whole corner." It was agreed this line of thought would be studied further, and that the measure meanwhile can wait.

The sidetracked resolution called for "an additional light. . . at the Lon Starkey residence, the position to be designated by the councilman of the Fourth Ward (Horn)."

Horn moved for adoption of the resolution, but when he was queried on the needs involved, he said the objection was to a "small bulb" in a light that is already at the location. Other members of

Teachers Easier To Find If Requirements Are Tough

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—School administrators are finding that one way to get and keep teachers—a sore problem for 15 years now—is to make it harder to be a teacher.

The number of states requiring a college degree in education to teach in elementary schools now is nearing 35, and others are planning to put degree requirements into effect.

A group of school superintendents attending a conference of presidents of state associations of administrators here discussed this development in a panel interview today.

"We put in a requirement for a degree about three years ago," said Dale Whitenack, of Vancouver, Wash., "and, as many states have found, we discovered that the higher the requirements, the better are the chances of getting teachers."

The first question prospective teachers usually ask our recruits is 'What are your requirements?' Money is important too, but most of all they seem to want to work where their associates are well trained."

"It's only the same thing that the bar and medical profession did 40 or 50 years ago," commented William H. Buker, Holden, Mass. "They raised their standards, and you can see the results."

Massachusetts has required a degree for some years. Several states — Kansas and Louisiana, for example—have required them for junior and senior high schools and are beginning to put a degree requirement into effect for elementary schools.

The Kansas plan, as explained by Supt. Hugh C. Bryan, of Leavenworth, will be in full operation by the fall of 1959.

"Next year," Bryan said, "a person may get a provisional certificate with as few as 60 credit hours. But this will be good for only one year. For each renewal he must take eight additional hours and keep on doing that until he gets his degree."

Many communities in states which still recognize teaching certificates based on experience or degrees earned in other fields are ignoring this and are upgrading their faculties on their own.

Delinquent Parents Slated For School

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—Relatives of 10 youths about to be released from state training schools have been enrolled in a part-time school here. The idea of the course, instituted by Juvenile Court Judge Evan Crossley, is to educate adults so they may help keep the juvenile offenders from getting into trouble again.

council then pointed out the legislation asks for "an additional light," and Horn declared only one light is involved.

Horn told council the resolution had been drawn incorrectly by the city solicitor. He suggested that the measure be changed on the spot, but council insisted that it be held and rewritten.

"I've got a better light in my back yard than the one that's down there now (as a street light)," Horn declared.

Subways In Icecap Studied By Army

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army is experimenting with subways dug into the ice as a means of travel across Greenland's icecap.

If the experiment is a success, presumably there would be a network of subways through the 700,000 square miles of ice, dozens of feet deep.

Experimental tunnels and corridors have been maintained by the Army several years. One goes down to a depth of 150 feet.

An advance party of 240 men left Ft. Belvoir, Va., recently to conduct additional tests and experiments to see if subway networks would be profitable.

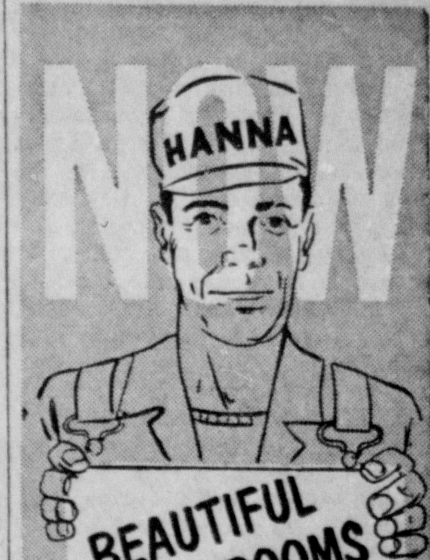

Telephone Strike Affects A-Plants

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP)—Atomic plants were affected by the telephone strike for the first time today when two private lines between the plants at Paducah, Oak Ridge were severed.

Service was out 8 hours. The vandalism, Southern Bell Telephone Co. officials said, was part of that in which 100 phone circuits were cut in "an attempt to isolate Paducah."

Boy Has 21 Reasons For Wanting Dog

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP)—A dog was stolen from the city dog pound and a 7-year-old boy has 21 reasons for wanting it returned. The dog is suspected of being rabid. And the boy, bitten last week by the dog, will have to take the 21-shot Pasteur treatment for rabies, just to be safe.

So Easy You Can Do-It-Yourself

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I fear I am losing my sanity. I am 27, and my trouble started when I was 8, and my mother died. My father was an irresponsible man who drank heavily; and I was shifted from one relative to another for 18 months. Finally I was placed in an orphanage, in the care of nuns. There I was very unhappy and became moody, sullen and very, very unfriendly.

The nuns tried to help me; but I didn't realize that at the time. At 14, when a sophomore in high school, I went to live with my father. But because he wouldn't buy me clothes, I was ashamed to attend school. When I was 17 my father remarried, and I was left on my own—never asked to live with them. Consequently I started drinking and became involved with a man, an association that led to an abortion.

My anxiety attacks started soon after that; and I began to drink heavily and became more and more depressed. All I ever wanted was to meet somebody nice, get married and raise a family.

Fearful All Men

However, the immediate problem is that I shake all over with nervous tension if I go out with a man nowadays; therefore I am refusing all dates, and won't take a job where there are men. In the orphanage we were punished if we talked about boys, so I came out into the world afraid of all men, including my father.

I've read many books, but they don't help. I know I have a chip on my shoulder; and may have an inferiority or a guilt complex. I would love to change, but don't know how. When drinking last summer I took some sleeping pills and landed in a hospital; and I am afraid I might do it again.

Are there any books I should read, or any place I can go for help? Most of all, tell me why I shake so, every time I go out with a man I shall be eternally grateful for any help you may give me. P. S. I don't drink any more.

P. R.

Aid For Soul Sickness
DEAR P. R.: The essence of your distress is this—you are soul-sick; that is, morally and emotionally sick. You need the healing offices of a father confessor, spiritually prepared to take the burden of past sin from your soul and cleanse you of guilt—so that you may start life anew, with spirit refreshed.

Also you need psychiatric therapy, to help you develop saving awareness of the unconscious destructive bias that spurs you to self-damaging behavior. Under this heading I would list your drinking bouts, the illicit behavior that led to abortion, the overdose of sleeping pills, etc. Insight into the nature of any ailment—mental, physical or moral—is the first long step towards bringing the disorder under control.

Agnes Sanford, internationally respected Protestant minister of the gospel, herself the wife and daughter of clergymen, tells in her book "The Healing Light" (Macalaster Park publishers) of the joyous renewal, the startling influx of spiritual succor she received after a confessional session and receiving Holy Eucharist. Feeling burnt out and despondent, she had recourse to these religious rites, alien to her traditional pattern of worship, hoping to recover zest for living—and the formula worked.

Longs for Love

Your nervous trembling in the company of men nowadays probably refers to terrific unconscious conflict between love-hunger and fear of sex. You long to love and be loved by a mate, which is humanly natural and morally right. But a senseless ingrained fear of men, as supposedly evil forces, and a guilty conscience about your teen-age sin, say "No" to your r-l aspirations. Add to this your tragic literal misfortune with men—your father's neglect and your adolescent betrayal—and we readily see why you feel terribly stymied in the field of man-woman relationships.

Psychiatric therapy will help you distinguish between those defeats in your past that you could not prevent, and those which you might have avoided, had you known then how to see clearly. This kind of education for living will be a lamp to your feet in future, lighting the way to courses of action that will have God's blessing, and will give you peace of mind and self-esteem—and all the good fruits thereof.

Apply to the Family Service Agency nearest you (see telephone directory) for a reference list of mental hygiene services available to you; also for a list of nearby churches or clergymen, who will take to heart the moral aspect of your suffering.

LONDON (A)—The kids who skip school the most do the best in reading and English, a headmaster's survey reveals.

"When a child takes a day off school to mind the baby, dry his shoes, wait for the rent collector or stays in bed with a cold," Headmaster F. R. Witty said, "he has more time for books and his reading improves proportionately."

The stay-at-homes also get better marks in English than the faithful attenders, Witty added. Reporting to the National Assn. of Head Teachers, Witty said the average student in the 11 to 15 age group read from 10 to 25 times more outside than in school.

WASHINGTON (A)—The Red Chinese, by design or necessity, have played it pretty cute since the Korean War. It's almost as if a public relations man had told them:

"Don't push your luck. Next time don't just jump into war. That's the hard way. Next time give yourself time to see what American public opinion is. That may let you know how far you can go, and what you can get, without war."

The Communists, by stopping United Nations forces in Korea, built up their prestige and self-confidence. But they lost heavily in men and supplies.

Their lack of readiness may be the real reason they haven't started shooting again. But, at the same time, Korea gave them a sharp insight into American thinking.

The Americans not only wanted to get out of the Korean War but were then and thereafter reluctant to get into war in Asia, where they could strip themselves bare in men and resources.

The Chinese Communists' first move after Korea was to help Ho Chi Minh and his Communist-led Vietnam whip the French in Indochina. They could have sent armies in to help him.

But Secretary of State Dulles warned—or maybe it wasn't a warning, because his language was so vague—that the United States would get into the Indochina fighting if the Red Chinese marched in.

Instead of sending in troops, the Reds pumped supplies and expert advisers into Indochina. Ho Chi Minh smashed the French. The United States did not go in. American allies wouldn't go in and the United States would not go in alone.

This was more evidence for the Reds of American reluctance to get into a fight in Asia. It must have been encouragement for them to make push again—which they did—without starting to shoot right away.

Their next move: threats to capture Formosa and the Matsu and Quemoy islands. They made no attempt to do so. By waiting they were able to learn what Americans thought of getting into war over the islands.

American opinion stiffened on defending Formosa. A Chinese attack on that almost certainly, at least right now, would mean war with the United States. But American opinion was divided on defending Quemoy and Matsu.

In the end, if the Reds are patient, this country may let them have Matsu and Quemoy. Meanwhile, they build up their air power as a threat to Quemoy and Matsu. Maybe when they feel strong enough they'll start a war by attacking the islands.

But why should they, if by waiting a little longer they may get them free, as they may? Their air power buildup may be a psychological needle on the American people: to pressure the administration into giving up Matsu and Quemoy since otherwise there is a chance of war.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (A)—The assistant dean of students was knocked unconscious yesterday as about 500 male students staged a party raid on girls' dormitories at the University of Tennessee.

The students, whose two-hour raid took in every girls' dorm on the campus, didn't actually get into any of the buildings. But dozens came away with clothing souvenirs tossed down by cooperative coeds.

Lawmakers Warned On Fat Balance

Pumped up by a recent advance on tax distributions to keep the municipal machinery in gear, the city's general fund at the end of April showed a balance of $23,279.57.

However, Chairman George Crites of city council's finance committee warned his fellow law-makers not to be misled by the substantial edge "in the black." He reminded them: "It has to run us until October."

Crites recently declared that the city is headed for critical fiscal problems early next year unless some way is found to avoid them.

He commented on current funds while discussing the latest report by City Auditor Lillian Young, drawn to cover the month of April.

THE REPORT, listing funds, receipts, expenditures and balances, was accepted by council as follows:

Storewide Sale of FINE FURNITURE EVERY PIECE TO BE SOLD!

Griffiths to Join National Furniture Chain Of Independent Retail Furniture Stores!

HERE ARE THE FACTS!

Our furniture business has been phenomenal. We didn't dream when we started that there would be such a tremendous public acceptance so quickly.

So, with the furniture business growing so rapidly, we are unable to give the concentrated attention to our buying which is a very important part of the business, for we shop, just as you do, for the best values available.

Therefore, when we were invited to join a national furniture chain of Independent Retail Furniture Stores we accepted the bid to become a member of the organization.

We will have buyers in our offices in the Merchandise Mart at Chicago constantly shopping the market to bring us, and you our customers, the best values offered in the country today.

Due to the large buying power of the group we will be able to save you many dollars on all the furniture you may need.

To do all this it is necessary, as you can easily see, to sell all the large stock of fine furniture we now have here and on order to make room for the furniture our buyers will be selecting for us.

We really appreciate the fine support you have given us in our first year in the furniture business and we are joining this huge organization so that we may do an even better job in the future.

Our clearance will be a real opportunity to buy fine furniture at a good saving.

THIS WON'T HOLD WATER

WHY HAS THE Soviet Union, which proclaims itself the leader of the world's "peace forces," been making and testing atomic weapons? This question has obviously bothered Soviet propagandists, who were not content with the standard explanation that every kind of arms expansion is "defensive."

Russia has also called loudly for the absolute prohibition of atomic weapons, which have been the West's chief deterrent against the swollen Red army. So an even more "peace-loving" explanation was sought for.

It wouldn't do, in this case, to say that reports of Soviet explosions were Wall Street-inspired lies by which the ruling circles of the United States sought to prepare a new war. Radioactivity in the upper atmosphere cannot be hidden. So the propagandists finally hit upon the device of asserting that the Soviet Union was using atomic explosions for peaceful purposes—to move mountains, divert rivers, and create a new Central Asian sea to mitigate the bleak Siberian climate.

Such explanations, however, are pretty thin according to Physics Professor James M. Cook of the University of Michigan. Atom and hydrogen bombs, he points out, are not nearly so efficient at moving dirt as they are at killing people. The first atomic bombs were very roughly 1,000 times as powerful as World War II block-busters, but since they operated in three dimensions, their blasting diameter was only 10 times as great.

Thus the first atomic bombs could blast a hole only about 300 feet in diameter, compared to 30 feet for a blockbuster. And the latest hydrogen bombs, about 1,000 times as powerful as the first atomic bombs, figure to blast holes 3,000 feet in diameter. There just aren't enough hydrogen bombs in existence to blast out the bed for a vast artificial inland Asiatic sea.

And if there were, they couldn't do the job. They wouldn't destroy the dirt and rock they threw up, but only shift it a few miles. In the process they would make the area dangerously radioactive for many years. So the red propaganda explanation for Soviet nuclear explosions won't hold water, either.

THE YELLOW PERIL

RED CHINA is increasing in power so rapidly that the time may come when it will be arrayed against the world, including Russia. This is the opinion of Dr. Wilhelm Starlinger, a German physician who spent nine years in Russian labor camps.

His theory is based on the fact that Red China's population is increasing at the rate of 20 million a year. By official Soviet figures the population today is 600 million.

The only outlet for Chinese population is Northern Asia, now held by Russia, which faces the alternative of giving up this area to China in the future or fighting. When that time comes, according to the prediction of Dr. Starlinger, Russia will have no alternative but to join Western powers for its own survival.

World conditions are changing so rapidly that friends of today are tomorrow's enemies, and vice versa.

These Days

Two years ago, if anyone said "Conformity!" most people would wonder what he was talking about because in this country there is no rigid conformity except among teen-age gals who must do as their class at school does even if it gives them a tail like a horse.

Some propagandists got to using the word, conformity, and made a sin of it. After all, in some ways of life we all conform to patterns. We wear clothes which are fairly uniform, and advertising has taught us to eat the same breakfasts, although I, the conservative, eat neither eggs nor cereals, preferring meat or fish to start the day. We, most of us, stop at a red light and go when it is green. We pay our taxes, which we hate, and grumble almost in unison.

But what those, who most violently object to conformity, resent vehemently is the cultivation of a national ideal of life, namely, our people accepting the same concepts or being oppressed or coerced into believing them.

And yet, most of us do conform about generalities or we should have an anarchy. Most Americans believe that there is a God, a Divine Intelligence, although they can get into the fiercest kinds of arguments as to what He is and how He is to be worshipped. The fundamental remains, however.

And nearly all of us believe that ours is a good country, to which we try to be loyal according to our lights. Again there are vast and annoying differences of opinion as to how one can be most effectively loyal to his country—but the need for loyalty is not denied, and traitors are despised as unworthy and indecent.

Then most of us believe in the family and we should like to see our own preserved through life from beginning to the end. We do not, some of us, succeed in that, perhaps through selfishness or inflexibility or just plain cussedness. But the worst offenders speak well of the family although they have made a mess of their own.

We, in this country, are becoming somewhat confused about our economics because we live in a kind of mixed socialist-capitalist system. Two wars and a great depression have made our economy to go into by-ways. Nevertheless, most of us believe in good old-fashioned capitalism, if we could get a try at it again. However, we should not like to give up any of the benefits that came to us from the giveaways, that is, when we get something for nothing.

So we argue over the economy and some are for this and some for that but on the whole, it is the details we quarrel about, not the general principles. The Marxists and Keynesians and similar theorists have made smaller headway in this country than might have been expected seeing how much effort has gone into their propaganda.

Most Americans believe that their Constitution is a great instrument of government, particularly as it protects our liberties. But we are all, in this land, lawyers each one of us knows exactly what the Government should do, the Congress pass on, and the Supreme Court decide.

Desire To Suck Thumb Normal In Small Baby

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A VERY young baby has a strong desire to suck things. He will readily suck a bottle, his fingers, his hand or just about anything that comes near his mouth. He moves his hands about aimlessly, and doesn't have the power to select one particular finger to pop into his mouth.

By the time he is seven to ten months old, his skill has increased so that he is able to place his thumb or a particular set of fingers in his mouth. Your young baby, you see, gets great satisfaction out of mouth movements.

Leave Him Alone

Because it gives him pleasure, ordinarily you shouldn't try to break him of the habit at this time. As your youngster grows older, he will gradually lose much of his desire for mouth movements. He finds other things to interest him, such as playing with his feet and hands.

Little by little, the world grows more interesting for him as he sees more and hears more. Gradually he may lose his thumb-sucking habit if you keep him well-fed and occupied, although about half of the children still suck their thumbs or fingers occasionally at the age of four.

Can Cause Deformities

Thumb-sucking can cause deformities such as buck teeth. But you probably don't have to worry if your youngster has stopped sucking his thumb by the time he is six. Most of them do, by this time. Even if your baby's upper teeth and jaw do stick out a little as a result of prolonged sucking, the deformity usually will disappear soon after he stops.

Beyond the age of six, though, thumb-sucking for hours on end might cause permanent buck teeth. You've got to determine why your child wants to suck his thumb before you can do much about it.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

A. R. I am sixteen years old and cannot take vitamin C. Can this vitamin be absorbed by the system in any other way?

Answer: Vitamin C is present in many foods, particularly the citrus fruits and a number of vegetables. It is also available in the form of tablets. You should consult with your physician concerning the best method to obtain the vitamin C you require.

SYNOPSIS

Landon McCrae is on her way from her job in New York to the town of Windermere in Canada, where her happily married sister, Maggie Scarfe, is ill. A "spot" on Maggie's lung will send her from home for protracted treatment and in her absence, Landon will take over the household, comprising Maggie's husband, Eric, a teacher, her small daughter, Merry-o, and "Gran," Scott Wylie, bachelor and old beau of Landon, is delighted at the prospect of her return to Windermere. And she does return, to find her beloved Maggie wan and spent, yet courageous.

CHAPTER FOUR

THERE was a commotion at the front door.

Maggie jumped up. "They're home from church." She punched back tears with impatient hands and flung up her head. Her grin came back like a light as Merry-o bounced in with Rowena Hatch.

And, braced by that grin of Maggie's, Landon found the courage to be easy and bright in her greetings. She put her arms around the white-haired old lady and kissed her.

Rowena held her off for an affectionate scrutiny. "That's sinful stuff you're wearing!"

"Sinful stuff," echoed Merry-o, with a beaming smile.

Landon laughed and reached down for her. She had been christened Mary-Ellen, but something quick and gay in her own learning-to-talk contraction suited her, and the appellation stuck. She was as brown as a savage in her Sunday pink denim, with smooth, straight bangs and braids of silky hair bleached white as ripe barley. She gave Landon a quick knee-hug and nuzzle and then walked over to Maggie.

"How long is a year, Mommy?" she asked.

Maggie turned in a flash, her eyes enormous, one hand gripping the table. She stood, unable to say a word.

With innocent cruelty Merry-o persisted. "Longer than night?"

A strange numbness took hold of Landon.

Then Eric came through the door and scooped up Merry-o.

"It all depends, Pumpkin," he said.

"You know how nights are. Some are so long, you think they'll never end. Some so short, you just get your head on the pillow and shut your eyes, and—pouff! It's morning!"

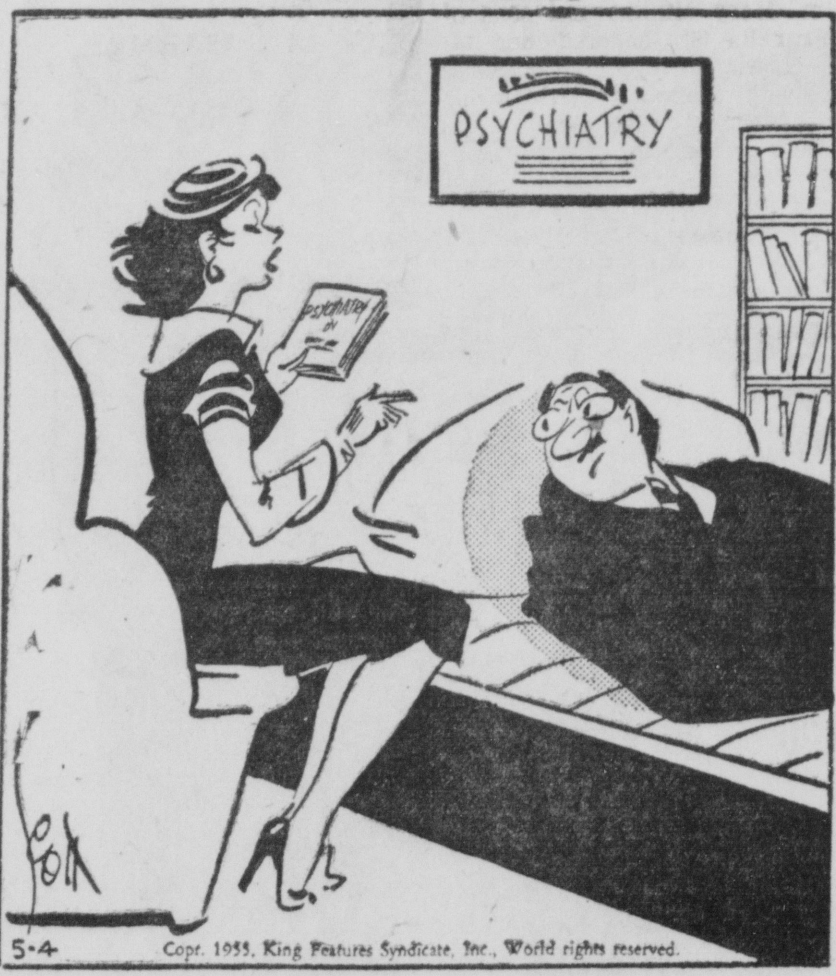

He sat her on his shoulder and carried her out to the patio, stopping on his way to bend and kiss Maggie on her trembling mouth.

Maggie lifted her hand and brushed her hair back off her forehead; color was returning to her cheeks.

Rowena gave her a keen look.

Wanted: A Big Belly Laugh

--By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (U) — If you are worried about your health, here is a consoling thought—you probably won't die laughing.

Laughter never has been a leading cause of death in any civilized country, and the danger of it knocking you off in this country is diminishing every year.

"We're a sober lot and getting soberer," said Charles Morton, a thoughtful humorist who never lets the foibles of a confused world disturb his own wry good cheer.

"It is becoming more difficult for us to laugh at ourselves. Everybody's terribly cautious. They're afraid of offending someone. As the money stakes get higher and our enterprises larger, everything seems to become desperately serious."

"This is too bad. There is enough that is upside down in this world to warrant anybody having a good big belly laugh."

Morton, associate editor of the Atlantic Monthly, is one of the few remaining masters of the light article, a deft humor form brightened by such predecessors as Stephen Leacock and Robert Benchley. After surviving the feminine indignation aroused by his book on "How to Protect Other Vicissitudes," Morton has come out with a new and equally funny guidebook to current "stuffed-shirtisms" called, "A Slight Sense of Outrage."

Among other things Morton is outraged by V-necked men's pajamas ("men with their collars off look like picked chickens") and writers who describe bananas as "the elongated yellow fruit" and billiard balls as "the numbered spheroids."

He has a theory on how a sense of humor develops and how a humorist differs from normal people.

"Assuming a child is ordinarily intelligent and has a sense of proportion," he said, "he tends to believe what grownups tell him. He realizes they are older and have lived longer."

"But at some point he discovers that an enormous amount of what they have told him is baloney—pure moonshine—and that they don't know what they are talking about."

"This seems amusing to him and excites his sense of comedy because it is funny to see people actually believing the ridiculous things they say. It also seems funny for him to reflect they had him believing this guff, too."

"Thus humor is an awakening, a discovery. But, unfortunately if he is normal, in time this sense of comedy evaporates. He no longer is excited or amused by the crazy things people do or say. He himself becomes one of the older people who say and do things that are manifestly absurd."

"The wheel has turned full circle. "But there are a few people who never get over it, who never grow up. Thus it could be interpreted that a light writer is a case of arrested development."

Morton lit up a cigar and cheerfully admitted that he was in no hurry to grow up himself. In an age of speed everything comes and goes faster. The lightning wisecrack and the one-line cartoon gag now characterize the nation's comedy. The leisurely light humorous essay is slowly dwindling.

"There are few markets left for it," said Morton, who says he wouldn't advise any mother to try to raise her boy to be a light writer.

THIS WON'T HOLD WATER

WHY HAS THE Soviet Union, which proclaims itself the leader of the world's "peace forces," been making and testing atomic weapons? This question has obviously bothered Soviet propagandists, who were not content with the standard explanation that every kind of arms expansion is "defensive."

Russia has also called loudly for the absolute prohibition of atomic weapons, which have been the West's chief deterrent against the swollen Red army. So an even more "peace-loving" explanation was sought for.

It wouldn't do, in this case, to say that reports of Soviet explosions were Wall Street-inspired lies by which the ruling circles of the United States sought to prepare a new war. Radioactivity in the upper atmosphere cannot be hidden. So the propagandists finally hit upon the device of asserting that the Soviet Union was using atomic explosions for peaceful purposes—to move mountains, divert rivers, and create a new Central Asian sea to mitigate the bleak Siberian climate.

Such explanations, however, are pretty thin according to Physics Professor James M. Cook of the University of Michigan. Atom and hydrogen bombs, he points out, are not nearly so efficient at moving dirt as they are at killing people. The first atomic bombs were very roughly 1,000 times as powerful as World War II blockbusters, but since they operated in three dimensions, their blasting diameter was only 10 times as great.

Thus the first atomic bombs could blast a hole only about 300 feet in diameter, compared to 30 feet for a blockbuster. And the latest hydrogen bombs, about 1,000 times as powerful as the first atomic bombs, figure to blast holes 3,000 feet in diameter. There just aren't enough hydrogen bombs in existence to blast out the bed for a vast artificial inland Asiatic sea.

And if there were, they couldn't do the job. They wouldn't destroy the dirt and rock they threw up, but only shift it a few miles. In the process they would make the area dangerously radioactive for many years. So the red propaganda explanation for Soviet nuclear explosions won't hold water, either.

THE YELLOW PERIL

RED CHINA is increasing in power so rapidly that the time may come when it will be arrayed against the world, including Russia. This is the opinion of Dr. Wilhelm Starlinger, a German physician who spent nine years in Russian labor camps.

His theory is based on the fact that Red China's population is increasing at the rate of 20 million a year. By official Soviet figures the population today is 600 million.

The only outlet for Chinese population is Northern Asia, now held by Russia, which faces the alternative of giving up this area to China in the future or fighting. When that time comes, according to the prediction of Dr. Starlinger, Russia will have no alternative but to join Western powers for its own survival.

World conditions are changing so rapidly that friends of today are tomorrow's enemies, and vice versa.

THERE was a commotion at the front door.

Maggie lifted her hand and brushed her hair back off her forehead; color was returning to her cheeks.

Rowena gave her a keen look.

"You go on outside, too," she said. "Landon and I will fix the trays. You sit down and rest."

"Rest!" scoffed Maggie. "Can't you wait until I'm out of the house to get me started on it?"

But she obeyed docilely.

When she had gone out, Rowena put a hand on Landon's arm. "I'm glad you came, dear. You belong here. We'll get through this."

The patio was a tiled, low-walled square, half in the shade of an umbrella-shaped tulip tree, half white with sun. Wheeling out the service cart with the trays, Landon stood a moment in the doorway. Maggie was lying in the shade on a chaise longue, her face upturned to Eric. She was just looking at him, as if memorizing his features, and her whole heart was in her eyes. Eric's back was to Landon, his shoulders a protective curve over Maggie, as if he would shield her with his body from everything ugly and dangerous in the world. So big and strong—and unavailing against a tiny red, rod-shaped bacillus!

Although Breck sanatorium was only an hour's drive from Windermere, Maggie's departure gave Landon the feeling that her sister had gone off to live on another planet.

By nature Landon's hands and mind were capable, and during the next few days both were challenged to meet and master new responsibilities.

Once a week Dora Hendrix came for the heavy cleaning. "The Boss," Maggie called Dora. Crusty, dependable, proprietary. It was "Our floors are taking on a fine luster, Mrs. Scharfe." And: "Our storm windows must go on next week." "It's even our Merry-o," Maggie once confided in Landon. "One of these days it'll be our Mrs. Scarfe!"

Loyal was also a word for the Boss, but Landon came by that knowledge, eventually, herself.

Rowena informed Landon that all you had to do was plug some cord in somewhere and Maggie's up-to-date house ran itself. It did... except when the toaster went wrong or the stove's thermostatic control browned everything too brown.

Landon's first pie boiled over in the oven.

"Blueberry, wouldn't you know?" she sighed ruefully to Eric, who found her on her knees at the oven scraping out porous chunks of charred juice with a big knife. "Did you ever see a worse mess?"

Eric put an armful of books on the kitchen counter and rolled up his shirt sleeves. "Move over," he said. "Give me that knife."

She obeyed, reluctantly. Burdening Eric with more work than he already had was unfair. Besides his summer school lectures, Eric was writing "Windermere, 1853-1953," a history of the university to mark the 100th year of its founding. "The kitchen is my department," she said. "You should be plodding your way through that formidable stack of research."

He gave her a big-brother grin. "What went into this pie, anyway—a bushel of berries?"

"Only what the recipe called for—honestly, Eric! They just seemed to blow up."

"I have heard that alibi from Maggie," he said. "She made a cherry pie once. More fruit in the oven than under the crust. I came in and found the kitchen spouting black smoke, and Maggie in tears."

"Maggie?" Landon's eyes went wide with incredulity. "Tears?"

"Brides are funny. They go to pieces over the darndest things."

His voice caromed off, something tightened in Landon's throat. Eric was thinking of the bride who had grown up; of the woman who had put up so gaily believable a front about "Mr. little shadow." Quickly Landon said, "My pie looks perfectly awful, and I wanted it for dinner tonight."

"Put some whipped cream on it."

He grinned. "For months after we were married I never knew what I was likely to find under a mound of whipped cream or a layer of sauce."

"Do you remember mayonnaise on the cake and butterscotch icing on the salad?"

"Do I?"

They laughed. Maggie was suddenly close beside them, funny and beloved, making everything easy to laugh at.

Landon had expected one long gray day to follow another. Surprisingly, time did not lag. Merry-o, adjusted with astonishing quickness, and was a constant delight. Landon marvelled at her simple conception of a silver lining. The cake batter spoon to lick, or permission to choose her own TV program could banish brooding shadows in the blue eyes so remindingly like Maggie's, and tip up the disconsolate mouth.

Rowena was also full of surprises. Resolutely maintaining a sense of normalcy and life as usual—Maggie's edict for them all—Gran went cane-hopping from counter to counter at the end-of-July sales, and started another piece of needlepoint.

Eric was sleeping badly. Often, in the room beside hers, Landon heard restless bed-creakings and slipped feet pacing off time. In the dead of night a whiff of cigarette smoke would sting her nostrils.

Among other things Morton is outraged by V-necked men's pajamas ("men with their collars off look like picked chickens") and writers who describe bananas as "the elongated yellow fruit" and billiard balls as "the numbered spheroids."

He has a theory on how a sense of humor develops and how a humorist differs from normal people.

"Assuming a child is ordinarily intelligent and has a sense of proportion," he said, "he tends to believe what grownups tell him. He realizes they are older and have lived longer."

But at some point he discovers that an enormous amount of what they have told him is baloney—pure moonshine—and that they don't know what they are talking about.

"This seems amusing to him and excites his sense of comedy because it is funny to see people actually believing the ridiculous things they say. It also seems funny for him to reflect they had him believing this guff, too."

"Thus humor is an awakening, a discovery. But, unfortunately if he is normal, in time this sense of comedy evaporates. He no longer is excited or amused by the crazy things people do or say. He himself becomes one of the older people who say and do things that are manifestly absurd."

"The wheel has turned full circle."

"But there are a few people who never get over it, who never grow up. Thus it could be interpreted that a light writer is a case of arrested development."

Morton lit up a cigar and cheerfully admitted that he was in no hurry to grow up himself.

In an age of speed everything comes and goes faster. The lightning wisecrack and the one-line cartoon gag now characterize the nation's comedy. The leisurely light humorous essay is slowly dwindling.

"There are few markets left for it," said Morton, who says he wouldn't advise any mother to try to raise her boy to be a light writer.

"She couldn't do it anyway," he added. "No one who writes a good piece knows exactly how or why he was able to. All he knows is that it warms him in a strange way."

Is Industry In America Outdated Now?

Top Industrialists Calling For Hike In Over-All Output

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—All that talk about American industry being over expanded—is it outdated already?

Some top industrialists are saying so today and called for further increases in the capacity of mills and factories to keep in step with the increased consumer demand they foresee.

Just one year ago, it was fashionable in some circles to say that the great postwar spurt of building new plants and buying new equipment had given the United States a production capacity well in excess of current civilian consumer demand.

It would be quite some time, they said, before civilian demand—if unsupported by an additional huge defense production—would catch up and keep all those facilities busy. But now plans for future expansion are being announced by the corporate leaders in many industries.

The basic industry, steel, is a good example of this switch over in thinking.

Between 1950 and 1954 it increased its capacity by one fourth. Last year, the leaders in the industry were saying that present capacity of 124,300,000 tons a year should be enough for at least five years more.

This week the nation's steel mills are set to turn out 2,328,000 tons, according to the American Iron and Steel Institute. This would top the record set in March 1953.

Today, at least five of the top men in the industry are on record as saying another round of building more mills and upgrading old equipment must be started.

The reason: The steady increase in the nation's population—and more importantly—the increase in the standard of living. Steelmen believe Americans will be buying more cars, more appliances, building more offices, stores and homes, more bridges, schools and highways.

Benjamin F. Fairless, in his swan song as he steps down from the chairmanship of the board of U. S. Steel, says his company to keep in step must add more than one million tons of new capacity each year.

Eugene G. Grace, chairman of Bethlehem Steel, the nation's second largest producer, says his company should add eight million tons of capacity in the next 10 years.

E. T. Weir, chairman of National Steel, says the industry is using all of its first class equipment today and now faces the problem of further development.

W. W. Sebald, president of Armco Steel, and Avery C. Adams, president of Pittsburgh Steel, join in the call for another round of expansion.

This expansion of basic steel production capacity will be accompanied by upgrading of the facilities for making finished products.

The rapid development of new and better products in many industries has called for specialized steels. The jet in aircraft, for example, demands new alloys. The metalworking industry is busy meeting the demand.

Steelmen do not pretend to believe that this week's record output pace will be repeated week after week for the rest of the year. They expect a lull to come along this summer as usual when many of their chief consumers close down

TYING UP two main lines of the Pennsylvania railroad in Garfield Heights, Cleveland, 38 empty gondola freight cars are smashed and piled up when two strings of empty gondolas collide. No one was injured. All the cars were twisted like the one above. (International)

Political Opponent Hopes Churchill Accepts Peerage

LONDON (AP)—A. I. M. Milner, who's going to run against Sir Winston Churchill in the May 26 British elections, admits he doesn't have a chance of getting Churchill's seat in Commons.

"But I feel very sure that I'm going to cut down his majority, and that may make him think," Milner said.

"Make him think what? the reporter asked.

"That he ought to give up his seat in the House of Commons, accept a peerage and move into the House of Lords."

"If I get enough votes it may convince Sir Winston that he should move up. Actually, I don't think he'd really mind it very much."

There have been frequent reports that Churchill can have a peerage when he wants it. But the former Prime Minister wants to remain in the House of Commons and continue his political career as the representative of the small constituency of Woodford.

Churchill is 80, Milner 44. Milner is the son of the principal of a technical college and a graduate of London University. He considers himself on the left wing of the Labor party.

He is an engineer, and during the war worked on some secret projects, including radar. He belonged to a volunteer fire department and helped fight fires during the German blitz on Coventry and Birmingham.

"She thought I was a bloody fool," he said with a smile.

Is Industry In America Outdated Now?

Top Industrialists Calling For Hike In Over-All Output

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—All that talk about American industry being over expanded—is it outdated already?

Some top industrialists are saying so today and called for further increases in the capacity of mills and factories to keep in step with the increased consumer demand they foresee.

Just one year ago, it was fashionable in some circles to say that the great postwar spurt of building new plants and buying new equipment had given the United States a production capacity well in excess of current civilian consumer demand.

It would be quite some time, they said, before civilian demand—if unsupported by an additional huge defense production—would catch up and keep all those facilities busy.

But now plans for future expansion are being announced by the corporate leaders in many industries.

The basic industry, steel, is a good example of this switch over in thinking.

Between 1950 and 1954 it increased its capacity by one fourth. Last year, the leaders in the industry were saying that present capacity of 124,300,000 tons a year should be enough for at least five years more.

This week the nation's steel mills are set to turn out 2,328,000 tons, according to the American Iron & Steel Institute. This would top the record set in March 1953.

Today, at least five of the top men in the industry are on record as saying another round of building more mills and upgrading old equipment must be started.

The reason: The steady increase in the nation's population and—more importantly—the increase in the standard of living. Steelmen believe Americans will be buying more cars, more appliances, building more offices, stores and homes, more bridges, schools and highways.

Benjamin F. Fairless, in his swan song as he steps down from the chairmanship of the board of U. S. Steel, says his company to keep in step must add more than one million tons of new capacity each year.

Eugene G. Grace, chairman of Bethlehem Steel, the nation's second largest producer, says his company should add eight million tons of capacity in the next 10 years.

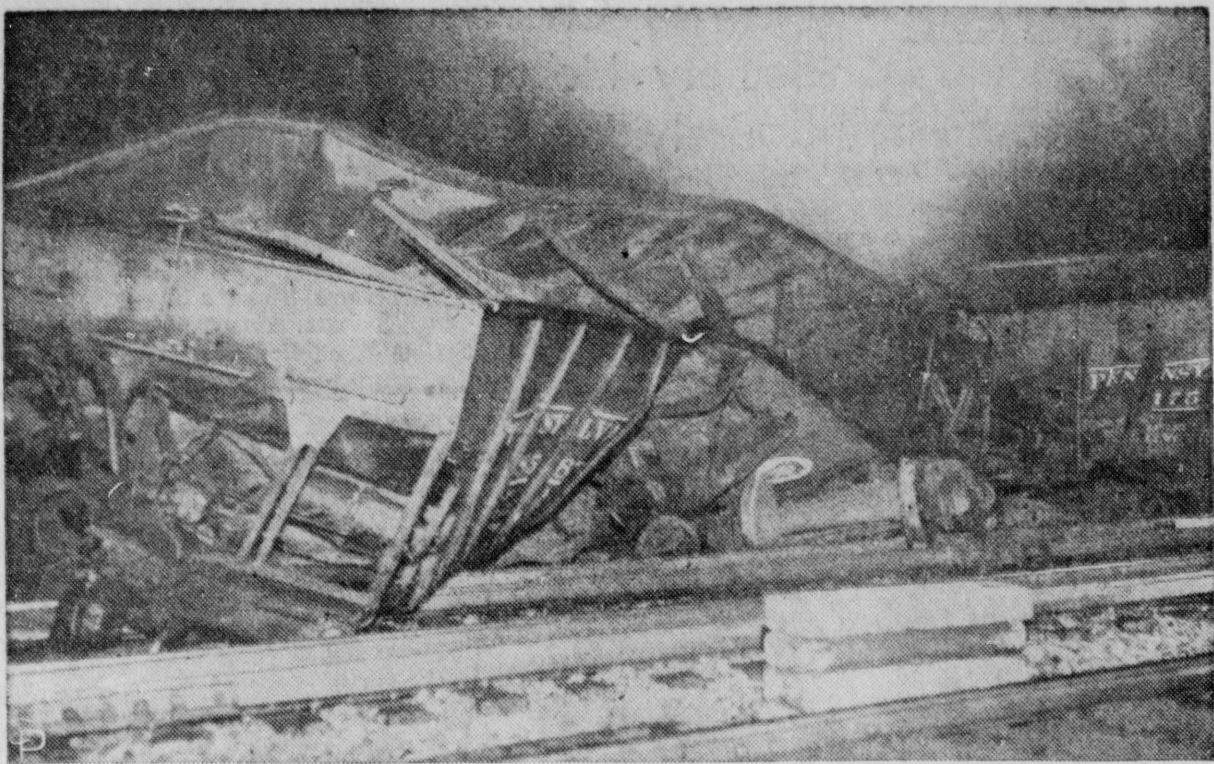

E. T. Weir, chairman of National Steel, says the industry is using all of its first class equipment today and now faces the problem of further development.

W. W. Sebald, president of Armco Steel, and Avery C. Adams, president of Pittsburgh Steel, join in the call for another round of expansion.

This expansion of basic steel production capacity will be accompanied by upgrading of the facilities for making finished products.

The rapid development of new and better products in many industries has called for specialized steels. The jet in aircraft, for example, demands new alloys. The metalworking industry is busy meeting the demand.

Steelmen do not pretend to believe that this week's record output pace will be repeated week after week for the rest of the year. They expect a lull to come along this summer as usual when many of their chief consumers close down

Political Opponent Hopes Churchill Accepts Peerage

LONDON (AP)—A. I. M. Milner, who's going to run against Sir Winston Churchill in the May 26 British elections, admits he doesn't have a chance of getting Churchill's seat in Commons.

"But I feel very sure that I'm going to cut down his majority, and that may make him think," Milner said.

"Make him think what? the reporter asked.

"That he ought to give up his seat in the House of Commons, accept a peerage and move into the House of Lords.

"If I get enough votes it may convince Sir Winston that he should move up. Actually, I don't think he'd really mind it very much."

There have been frequent reports that Churchill can have a peerage when he wants it. But the former Prime Minister wants to remain in the House of Commons and continue his political career as the representative of the small constituency of Woodford.

Churchill is 80, Milner 44. Mil-

for factory vacations or for model changeovers.

But, a steel plant isn't built in a day. The expansion they are talking of is to meet the needs of a rising standard of living two, five, 10 years from today.

The earth receives only one six-hundred-thousandth as much light from the full moon as from the sun.

Ohio Commerce Gets Boost In State Measure

Senate Passes Bills Affecting Seaway Ports On Lake Erie

COLUMBUS (AP)—A new era in Ohio commerce began to dawn yesterday in the Senate with approval of two bills to enable the south shore of Lake Erie to accommodate ocean-going vessels.

Both proposals clear the way for Ohio business to reap the benefits of the St. Lawrence Seaway. The bills were sent to the House.

In what appeared to be historic actions, the Senate voted to:

1. Authorize cities and counties, or combinations of both, to set up port authorities with power to levy taxes and to buy, build and operate port facilities to handle both lake and ocean traffic.

2. Authorize the state director of public works, with the governor's consent, to lease submerged land running out from the Lake Erie shoreline to those who own the shoreline itself. This proposed law is designed to give private investors a sufficient "color of title" to the land lying on the lake bottom that they might borrow money to build port facilities.

In other actions yesterday:

THE SENATE passed and sent to the House a bill to set a maximum of one per cent on city income taxes. Only a few cities now collect that high an income tax. Most such taxes are pegged at one-half of one per cent. The bill, claimed by sponsors to set up some uniformity in the collection of city income taxes, exempts rents from such taxes.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to give truckers hauling sealed cargoes a break. It permits such loads to shift as much as 1,000 pounds per axle without penalty for overloading.

Because of lengthy debate in the Senate, two bills scheduled for vote yesterday were held over.

One is a measure which would require the State Water Pollution Control Board to advise and counsel communities which have been ordered to abate stream pollution.

Also up for a Senate vote today is a bill which provides members of the State Racing Commission must be confirmed by the Senate after appointment by the governor. It also provides the commission itself, rather than the governor, shall designate the commission's chairman and grants commission members a salary increase from $2,500 to $3,600 a year.

PROOF that POLY-LIN*

gives the best house paint job you've ever had . . .

Dean & Barry Poly-Lin
Molecules of 100% pure polymeric (Poly-Lin) linseed oil are more closely interlaced, as compared to the loose and open structure of regular linseed oil. That's why Poly-Lin gives a much stronger, more elastic paint film — why Dean & Barry house paint with Poly-Lin doesn't prematurely break down and dull out.

Dean & Barry Poly-Lin
Poly-Lin permits oil and pigments to be more completely mixed to give these advantages: (1) easier brushing (2) better leveling action, smoother surface (3) a more uniform coating for long, even wear.

Dean & Barry Poly-Lin
Because Poly-Lin gives a smoother, more uniform paint film . . . light is more evenly reflected. That's why Dean & Barry house paint looks glossier — looks better much longer.

makes your home look like a million a DEAN & BARRY extra value at no extra cost . . .

We've always had good cause to be enthusiastic about the sound value Dean & Barry paint products give. But never in our years of business has such dollar-stretching value been offered in a house paint. Never have we seen a smoother, glossier, longer-lasting finish for the exterior of your home.

That's the way we feel about it. That's the way the proof adds up to us. And for you it adds up to the best house paint job you've ever had.

Check the proof! Buy on facts! Buy Dean & Barry house paint with Poly-Lin from us. Or have your painter-decorator come in. You'll be glad you did!

Yankees Confident Turley Holds Key To Another Flag

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—After watching Bullet Bob Turley spin his fourth straight victory at the expense of the Detroit Tigers, the Yankees are confident now that they have the "stopper" who will keep them in the American League race all the way.

In addition to the blinding speed he exhibited for Baltimore last year, the powerful young right-hander has developed a curve and change-up under the patient coaching of Jim Turner which remind veteran observers of Bobby Feller in his palmist days.

Also, while his control has improved markedly over last season, Turley has retained just enough of his "wildness" to keep the batters loose up there and prevent their taking a toe-hold. That, incidentally, always has been one of the secrets of Feller's success. There never was a time that Bobby couldn't throw a ball through a knothole when he wanted to.

In his most recent four-hit effort against the Tigers, Turley insured only four passes. This compared to the 10 he put on base in his earlier one-hitter against the Chicago White Sox. Turley's two other victims were Boston and Baltimore, each set down with five hits. In 36 innings to this point, he has fanned 33 and given up only seven runs.

Turner, the club's gifted hill coach, devoted the spring to teaching Turley two things, to snap a curve across the plate and to conceal his pitches. He also emphasized to the young man that he would not need to try to pitch a no-hitter every game as he did at Baltimore, where he had a 14-5 record.

"I think maybe that's the biggest thing that's happened to me," he says. "In three of the four games I've started these fellows have given me a nice lead to work on right at the start. It's a mighty relaxing feeling not to think that each ball I throw might cost me the ball game."

COLUMBUS (AP)—The second-placed Columbus Jets are being tagged the "surprise team" of the 1955 International League season so far.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved husband and father the late Fred Seymour who passed away May 3, 1955. We say time heals all sorrow and helps us to forget. How much we miss you yet. God gave us strength to face it and courage to bear the blow. But what it meant to lose you. No one will ever know. Sadly missed by Mrs. Seymour and children.

St. Charles '9' Defeats Tigers In 11 To 6 Tilt

Circleville High School blew a 5 to 2 lead as Columbus St. Charles came on in a hurry to win 11 to 6 Tuesday afternoon here in a Central District Class A baseball game.

St. Charles scored two runs in the third on walks. But then they began to hit and scored nine times in the next three innings. Their big moment came in the fifth when they pushed five runs across the plate.

Freshman Mike Hosler, pitching his first game for CHS, tired in the fifth. Jim McConnell replaced him and was nicked for the winning runs.

CHS did manage to blast St. Charles' top hurler, southpaw DeMatteis, who was taken out in the third. (He is also their fancy quarterback in football.)

ST. CHARLES will take on Newark, which blasted Rosary 14 to 1 in another Class A tilt.

Line score follows:
St. Charles 002 252 0 — 11 14 2
CHS 005 100 0 — 6 9 5
DeMatteis, Batck (3); Riccoro.
Hosler, McConnell (5), Sieverts (7); Jones.

8 Records Broken In Dayton Relays

DAYTON (AP)—Eight relay records were broken and two tied in the fifth annual Dayton Relays yesterday, won by Columbus East with 4-7-10 points.

Mansfield, last year's winner, and Springfield Public tied for second.

Bucks To Wind Up Football Prep With 'Clinic' Contest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State's footballers wind up their spring training with the annual "clinic" game Saturday, but the team will bear little resemblance to the one which romped through 10 straight wins, including the Rose Bowl, last season.

Of the 11 Rose Bowl starters from Coach Woody Hayes' Big Ten and national champions, not one will be on hand. Seven are lost through graduation, and the other four will not be in uniform.

The four non-graduates are All-America halfback Hopalong Cassidy, who is playing centerfield for the Buck baseball team; tackle Moose Machinsky and guard Jim Parker, who have been excused from further practice, and fullback Hubert Bobo who is wrestling with his studies.

With quarterbacks Dave Leggett and John Borton among the graduates, Hayes was counting on Bill Booth as his No. 1 signal caller. But Booth broke a bone in his hand last Saturday and will miss the intra-squad fray.

Lee Williams of Springfield, the team's speed merchant and offensive standout in spring drills from a halfback spot, joined the track squad this week and will not be available for play. The same goes for Jerry Harkrader of Middletown, a certainty for the right halfback chore, who has been excused from further workouts.

With all the standouts missing, the several thousand fans and several hundred high school coaches attending the Saturday contest will need programs to learn who is playing.

The State's scholastic coaches will attend the Friday-Saturday clinic, and will hold their annual election. Wayne Stoddard of Akron is due to succeed George Vleebome of Zanesville as president of the state's high school grid mentors.

Annual meeting of the board of directors of the coaches' association is scheduled Thursday night, at which final plans for the Aug. 12 North-South all-star game at Mansfield will be wrapped up. The 1956 all-star contest has been awarded to Canton.

No Changes Seen In ABC Tourney

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—The gross tournament went through its second straight day without a single change among the top 10 in any of the four divisions.

While temperatures in Fort Wayne soared to the high 80s yesterday, the bowlers cooled off and scores fell away below par in one of the lightest scoring days.

Most of the excitement during the 39th day of the 72-day tourney was turned in by a trio of bowlers from the Lewis Pharmacy team of Chicago. The three slept through the train stop at Fort Wayne and woke up in Lima, about 64 miles from Fort Wayne. The three got a cab in Lima and arrived in Fort Wayne in time to bowl.

and with 36 in the event, in which 22 schools competed.

ed the Philadelphia mark. Kluszwski's first homer in the fourth inning came right after Gus Bell slugged one. And Chuck Harmon followed Klu's example in the seventh with his own clout. The first baseman's big hit in the seventh broke a 5-5 deadlock. Sharing honors with the sluggers was the neat pitching job turned in by Bud Podbielan. The righthander came into the game in the fourth when the Phils were ahead 5-0, and gave up one single and one walk in six innings for his first victory of the season. His performance, which included five strikeouts, strengthens his bid for a starting assignment with the last place Reds.

Redleg starter Corky Valentine failed to get a man out as he gave up three hits.

St. Charles '9' Defeats Tigers In 11 To 6 Tilt

Circleville High School blew a 5 to 2 lead as Columbus St. Charles came on in a hurry to win 11 to 6 Tuesday afternoon here in a Central District Class A baseball game.

St. Charles scored two runs in the third on walks. But then they began to hit and scored nine times in the next three innings. Their big moment came in the fifth when they pushed five runs across the plate.

Freshman Mike Hosler, pitching his first game for CHS, tied in the fifth. Jim McConnell replaced him and was nipped for the winning runs.

CHS did manage to blast St. Charles' top hurler, southpaw DeMatteis, who was taken out in the third. (He is also their fancy quarterback in football.)

ST. CHARLES will take on Newark, which blasted Rosary 14 to 1 in another Class A tilt.

Line score follows:
St. Chas. 002 252 0 — 11 14 2
CHS 005 100 0 — 6 9 5

No Changes Seen In ABC Tourney

PORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—The gross tournament went through its second straight day without a single change among the top 10 in any of the four divisions.

While temperatures in Port Wayne soared to the high 80s yesterday, the bowlers cooled off and scores fell away below par in one of the lightest scoring days.

Most of the excitement during the 39th day of the 72-day tourney was turned in by a trio of bowlers from the Lewis Pharmacy team of Chicago. The three slept through the train stop at Port Wayne and woke up in Lima, about 64 miles from Port Wayne. The three got a cab in Lima and arrived in Port Wayne in time to bowl.

ed the Philadelphia mark.

Kluszewski's first homer in the fourth inning came right after Gus Bell slugged one. And Chuck Harmon followed Klu's example in the seventh with his own clout. The first baseman's big hit in the seventh broke a 5-5 deadlock.

Sharing honors with the sluggers was the neat pitching job turned in by Bud Podbielan. The righthander came into the game in the fourth when the Phils were ahead 5-0, and gave up one single and one walk in six innings for his first victory of the season.

His performance, which included five strikeouts, strengthens his bid for a starting assignment with the last place Reds. Redleg starter Corky Valentine failed to get a man out as he gave up three hits.

Council Told Sewer Trouble Flooded Greenhouse Basement

County Given Assurance On Nicholas Drive

Police Pay Measure Still Under Study; Another Is Tabled

City council was one-half hour late getting under way with its regular meeting Tuesday night after lingering over the primary election results and other huddle subjects prior to the opening rap of the gavel. Deliberations ended shortly before midnight.

When the lawmakers first got down to business, they heard a letter from Robert L. Brehmer who told how "faulty sanitary sewer conditions" had caused water to back up and flood the basement of Brehmer's Greenhouse on N. Court St. At one time, the letter said, water in the basement was more than four feet deep, causing considerable loss.

"Dewey Speakman (city service director) has done all he can do to help us. . . . He can tell you about these conditions," Brehmer wrote the lawmakers.

Speakman confirmed the story related in the letter and said the trouble appeared to be caused originally by surface water, which resulted in the Court St. sewer running full. The service director indicated the matter had been adjusted for the time being, however, and council went on to other things.

A PROPOSED ordinance to vacate property in the vicinity of Corwin School, requested by the city board of education as part of the school building program, stirred sharp criticism from Councilman George Crites.

The measure was held to first reading after Crites declared the school board's decisions and planning should be made better known to the public. (See separate story) Through an emergency ordinance, Pickaway County then asked for and received assurance of full city cooperation as improvement work on Nicholas Drive—formerly Lover's Lane—begins to pick up momentum. Councilman Harold Clifton and others urged prompt action on the measure to expedite the long-delayed project.

City Solicitor George Gerhardt told council the agreement proposed by the county was satisfactory, and council gave unanimous approval. The county plans to build a new bridge and construct approaches as part of the project.

The next measure resulted indirectly from recent complaints against sewer and street conditions in some parts of Circleville's new North Annex. According to Councilman Richard Penn, it requires that all property owners on Lewis Rd., Sunset Drive, and on Georgia Rd. from Sunset to Lewis, and on the east side of Lone Pine Rd. from Sunset to Lewis, put in curb and gutters after being formally notified of council's action. The area involved is in the P-A-T subdivision.

PENN SAID agreement of the property owners is nearly unanimous. Approval by the property owners, he said, would enable the city to speed up street construction work in that vicinity. The resolution was adopted.

Then, after the first two new measures were found to need further preparation before council can act on them, the lawmakers turned to other newly prepared proposals.

Without prior discussion at the time, council adopted a resolution which authorized a new street light at the intersection of Ruth and Stella Ave. The speed with which the measure was approved caused Crites to ask his colleagues:

"Do any of you boys know where this light goes?"

Several in reply hastened to tell him the location is in the Gorsuch addition. And Councilman Harold Clifton added:

"It's the most beautiful addition in town."

Council also passed on first reading an emergency ordinance which prohibits left turns at Court and Main streets from 8 a. m. until 10 p. m. on Saturdays, and at other times if specifically ordered by the city safety director. The left-turn ban previously was from 6 p. m. to midnight.

CITY SAFETY Director Miller Fissell explained the change was urgently needed to handle the increasing traffic flow through the heart of the city.

The ordinance centered discussion on the "no left turn" sign placed at the city's main corner on Saturdays. Nearly all the councilmen indicated they are not satisfied with the present sign and feel it should be made more noticeable for motorists. The lawmakers agreed to try some form of warning light on the sign for this purpose.

The next ordinance, also passed on first reading, added another regular employee to the maintenance section of the water department. The man in question has been carried in that division as an "extra" since March of 1954.

Turning to measures remaining from previous sessions, council held to second reading an ordinance that would grant a $25-a-month, "across the board" pay boost to regular policemen and sergeants on the force. Council's action in holding the ordinance for further study was very rapid and without comment. It will be up for final reading May 17.

Another salary increase request was tabled. The sidetrack action was taken on an ordinance that seeks a $25 a month pay increase for the clerk-cashier in the water and sewage department.

Crites moved to table the measure, and the second was by Councilman Ray Cook.

A few minutes later, council defeated an ordinance that would have prohibited parking on the east side of N. Scioto St between Pinckney St. and High St. (See separate story) quently sidetracked proposal to widen a stretch of S. Pickaway St. then came back to ensnarl the lawmakers in a variety of problems, largely caused by the refusal of some property owners to go along with the idea.

Assistant City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins said he wanted to make it clear that he has done "everything I can about it, and the next move has to be made by council." In addition to action needed by council, Robbins said additional planning and preparation of a cost bill also have to be completed.

Council was told that all but two property owners have agreed to cooperate with the project, providing they are not "assessed" part of the costs.

A motion finally made by Clifton, "to get a definite proposition from the property owners," was approved. Part of the job would include moving a dwelling.

Council then turned again to a review to large-scale planning to improve the city's sewer facilities. (See separate story) When adjournment came, it was evident that serious financing problems still face this vitally needed improvement program.

Pogo-Sticking Chills Editor But Daughter All Enthused

ZANESVILLE, Ohio —The editor of the Zanesville Signal, Clair C. Stebbins, wants to forget all about this pogo-stick jumping business. If his 11-year-old daughter Mary Jane will permit him, that is.

Mary Jane has the Stebbins house in an uproar.

Stebbins said when a Columbus news story reported the first pogo-stick jumping record claim the other day, daughter Mary Jane turned up her nose. The Columbus claimant reported 2,153 consecutive hops, whereas Mary Jane said she had already done better than that.

Said her father: "She immediately set out to prove her point by going 2,320 times in 20 minutes—in the kitchen and at dinner time yet. I thought the house was going to fall down. "By this time, Mary Jane had the jumping fever so next day she did 6,207 hops in a row before the pogo stick ran out of lubrication and she had to stop.

"She demanded that I notify The Associated Press of her exploit at once but I refrained, being of modest disposition."

When other reports of records started to drift in "Janie was ready to disown me for not registering her record," Stebbins wrote AP newsmen, "and when a youngster from Roanoke, Va., got his name in the paper with 5,613 hops she was so mad—well, we're still not speaking."

"Now I'm worried for fear that, by the time this report reaches you, some youngster somewhere in the country will have hopped 10,000 times and Janie will be back on her stick trying to reclaim the championship for which she has never received recognition. She has it greased again and is ready to go. There seems to be no limit for her endurance but the family can't say as much."

14-K saves the day!

Just one more out and the game is won.

And here it comes . . . an easy one. (Two runs across on Joe's bad play)

But "14-K" saves the day!

Draw a "14-K" For You? Just watch its creamy crown rise as your glass turns to gold. That's beer at its golden best . . . good, golden Hudepohl beer. Taste it . . . it's as close to perfection as man can brew.

For a remarkable finishing process we named Process 14-K adds a final brilliant touch to Hudepohl's famous flavor. Say, when's the last time you stopped by your friendly tavern for a frosty "14-K"?

PROCESS 14-K

May is National Tavern Month. Enjoy "14-K" on Tap

Golden HUDEPOHL Beer

Your guarantee of beer at its golden best . . . of purity, brilliance and genuine satisfaction . . . in every golden drop.

*Send in your ideas for another "14-K Saves the Day" cartoon to our ad men (The Hudepohl Brewing Company, Box 423, Cincinnati, Ohio) Winners receive artist's original cartoon of their idea. Try it!
